UPPER MISSISSIPPI RIVER IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION CONVENES AT MOLINE, ILL.

THE DELEGATES ASSEMBLE

Story of Work of Society and What It Means to the Entire United States.

MOLINE, Ill., Oct. 22.—(Special.)

Greetings to President Roosevelt and resolutions of thanks for his interest in the deep waterway project and his remarks at Vicksburg yesterday were telegraphed to the chief executive today by the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association in its sixth annual convention here today. Two hundred delegates are present. They were welcomed by President B. F. Peek of the Moline club, a response being made by President Thos. Wilkinson of the association, of Burlington.

Encouraged in their efforts by the recent visit of the president to the Mississippi river and by his expressed endorsement of the project for a deep waterway, the delegates have gathered here with the intention of making this the most notable meeting of the organization thus far held. The fact that the people, not only along the Mississippi river, but throughout the whole of the middle west and even beyond the great valley through which flows the Father of Waters, are interested in the movement for a rejuvenation of the stream as a carrier of large boats, is evidenced by the attendance of delegates today from cities that have hitherto thought it not worth while to send men to the conventions of this association. This increased interest in the deep waterway project is traceable, in large measure, to the visit of the president. It is also due, partially, to the publicity that has been given to the subject by newspapers all over the land and to the work of the officers of the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association, who have labored tirelessly to interest the newspapers and through them the public generally in this all-important matter.

A National Question.
The improvement of the Mississippi is a matter in which every man, woman and child in the United States is interested. This may seem like a broad statement, but a little thought will show its truth. Freight rates affect the living expenses of every family, in the proportion that that family uses merchandise that is shipped by freight. The merchant is not going to stand the cost of arbitrary freight rates. He will add it to the selling price of the commodities in which he deals, and the consumer will pay the cost when he buys

SPOTS ON SUN
PITTSBURG, O., Oct. 22.—Dr. John Brashers, director of the Allegheny observatory, says that for the last few days the surface of the sun has been literally covered with spots. One great group covering probably 100,000 square miles has three bridges extending across a dark path. Dr. Brashers says the radiations caused by the spots on the sun must come in a straight line to the earth to cause any disturbance.

ANTICIPATES NO ACTION ON RIVER

CONGRESSMAN ESCH SAYS IT IS VERY UNLIKELY

CONGRESS WANTS A RECORD

On Eve of a Presidential Election It is Not Apt to Appropriate Large Sums For Any Purpose

Representative John J. Esch of this city does not believe that there will be any important action at this session of congress on the improvement of the Upper Mississippi, despite the fact that President Roosevelt and a special commission have visited the great river during the season.

The appropriation of the last session for rivers and harbors and public buildings was $60,000,000 and in the case of the river this appropriation was intended to extend over a period of years. The upper Mississippi received $2,000,000 divided into half million lots to extend over four years.

"I do not believe there will be any public building or river and harbor appropriation this time," said Mr. Esch today. "The tendency at this session will be to save money. It is always so at a session preceding an election, and I do not believe there will be much positive legislation at the long session.

"However, the government is already committed to the six-foot channel for the upper Mississippi and is working in that direction already. All of the dams which have been put in this summer on the upper river are more longer than those installed before, and are intended to be a beginning toward the six-foot channel."

Although he does not anticipate any immediate action by congress on the river question Mr. Esch says that he is heartily in favor of the improvement of the Mississippi and believes that it will be done by the government at the earliest expedient time.

THE WALLINGS SET FREE BY CZAR WHEN UNCLE SAM REQUESTS

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 22.—William English Walling, his wife and her sister, Miss Rosa Strunsky, who were arrested by the czar's secret police, were released last night without condition. The authorities returned to them everything that was seized even the revolutionary pamphlets that had been found in Walling's room at the Hotel de France. The trio unite in saying that they were well treated by the Russian police and were accorded every courtesy.

Walling told friends today he will not demand indemnity for his imprisonment, and that Mrs. Walling and his sister enjoyed their prison experience.

Many Girls in Prison.
Mrs. Walling says that she was confined in a big room with twelve girls apparently 12 and 14 years of age, all of whom were accused of political offenses. Many of the girls were children and some of them had been imprisoned for four months without trial or hope of release. Girls, said Mrs. Walling, were being dragged from night trains between St. Petersburg and Moscow for examination by the different police officials. Mrs. Walling said:

"I believe that all the prettiest and brightest girls in the czar's empire are in jail."

After the release of Miss Rosa Strunsky last night she said that she was brought before the tribunal of the secret police whose intelligence she openly derides. The police tried to induce her to confess that Walling and his wife were not married, apparently believing that Mrs. Walling is a dangerous terrorist masquerading under Walling's name.

The police have not issued any order of expulsion, but the Wallings will leave Russia immediately and forever.

The release was effected through the good offices of the United States charge d'affaires, Montgomery Schuyler, Jr.

PRESSMEN'S STRIKE INJUNCTION STANDS

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 22.—The temporary injunction against the inciting of a strike by the International Pressmen's Union for an eight hour day was made permanent by United States Judge Thompson, who held that such action on the part of the union officers would be a breaking of a valid contract.

TO RESTORE RIVER IS TO BENEFIT ALL

ROOSEVELT PROMISES WATER-WAY PLANK IN MESSAGE

"I CUT OUT THE CANCER"

Executive Tells Nashville Had He Not Done so Patient (The Republic) Would Have Died

NASHVILLE, Oct. 22.—President Roosevelt made a speech here today, saying the improvement of the Mississippi will benefit the people of the whole United States. He said the whole people must be benefited. That was his principle as applied to the big corporations. He declared he had turned on the light, but he was not responsible for what the light had shown. "I cut out the cancer," he said. "The patient is likely to be sick for a little while, but if the cancer had not been removed the patient would have died."

The president left for Washington at noon.

Makes a Promise.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Oct. 22.—President Roosevelt late yesterday in an address delivered on his return trip from his bear hunt, to Washington, pledged himself to do all in his power to induce the sixtieth congress to take up the work of restoring to the Mississippi river its ante-bellum prestige.

He took his hearers into his confidence and told them he would write this as strongly as he knows how in his forth-coming message.

Not only was he desirous of making the Mississippi river a part of the ocean so far as traffic is concerned and the great connecting link between the sea and the Great Lakes but he would recommend a great system of federal levees that would destroy forever the fear of floods in the southern lowlands and turn the Mississippi delta into the most fertile garden spot in the world.

A Little Joking.

The president was in a high good humor after his hunt. While talking about his trip in search of bears some one in the audience shouted: "And did you get 'em?"

"This time I got 'em," replied the president, "but the other time I only got an even break with the bears. I got as much of them as they got of me."

Everywhere the president was greeted with cries of "Hurrah for Teddy" and this seemed to please him greatly.

PANAMA DISBURSING AGENT IS HERE

E. J. Williams, a former La Crosse county boy, now chief disbursing officer of the Panama canal, stationed at Empire, Panama, is visiting relatives and friends in La Crosse during his three months leave of absence, his first vacation in two years. This week, Mr. Williams is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hixon, at their home, Fourteenth and Cass streets.

Mr. Williams was born in La Crosse county, his father still residing near West Salem, Wis., on a farm. J. M. Pierce, county poor commissioner, is a nephew of Mr. Williams. In early life Mr. Williams entered the auditing service of the Chicago & Northwestern road. Then he entered the government service on the Panama canal. His efficiency soon brought him into notice, and he was promoted to chief disbursing officer.

All of the millions and millions to be expended in building the big canal will pass through Mr. Williams' office. In fact, he will have charge of the distribution of the piles and piles of money to be expended in the waterway, connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

During the two years Mr. Williams has been on the canal, he was without a vacation. During the holidays last year he planned to visit La Crosse, but was unable to get away. Sometime ago he received a leave of absence, and has been visiting in the east, New York city, Washington and New York state. A visit also has been paid to his boyhood home near West Salem, but during this week Mr. Williams is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hixon.

Mr. Williams reports the canal as moving along rapidly. He is optimistic over an early completion of the artificial waterway, and speaks in glowing terms of the work done by American engineers and labor.

The last tribute to Mrs. Jones was paid this afternoon at the residence, 222 South Tenth street. Rev. Henry Faville conducted the funeral services and interment was held at Oak Grove cemetery.

DIAMOND THIEVES FROM MINNEAPOLIS ARE NABBED HERE

CHARGED WITH ROBBERING COHEN
STORE IN MINNEAPOLIS

IDENTIFIED BY THE JEWELER

James Moran and Jack Kline Being Held Here and Will Be Taken Back to Flour City

The important arrest of the diamond thieves is regarded as the first big catch under Chief of Police Webber, and is regarded as a verification of the commissioners' choice.

James Moran and Jack Kline, wanted in Minneapolis for the robbery of the Jas. W. Cohen jewelry on the night of September 21, were arrested by the La Crosse police Saturday evening and have been identified. They are at the central station.

On the evening of Saturday, September 21, they are charged with having broken the brilliantly lighted window of Cohen the jeweler at Minneapolis, with a heavy iron, snatching $1,600 worth of diamonds, and escaping.

Mr. Cohen saw them while they were making their escape, and upon this clue the La Crosse police arrested the men.

Mr. Cohen was in the city yesterday.

COURT MADE HER DIG UP "PAPERS"

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 22.—A comedy was enacted in court here yesterday in the case of Walter A. Mayr, a Los Angeles manufacturer in suit for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Mayr had required papers and the husband demanded them.

"Where are they?" asked Commissioner Leonard.

"I have them, but don't you dare try to find out," returned Mrs. Mayr.

"I want my papers," reiterated Mayr. "Get them for me." This to the courtroom in general.

There was a consultation of attorneys and Mrs. Mayr was told by her lawyer that she would have to return the papers.

"Well, if I have to, all right," returned the woman, "but you will have to turn the other way." Then while the company looked demurely at the floor there was a swish of skirts, a dive into a stocking, and Mrs. Mayr threw the "papers," slightly crumpled but intact, on the floor.

"There," she said, and began to cry.

All men may be born equal, but it isn't long before one half of the world is pulling the other half's leg.

Eight Millions Paid to Panic Patrons Before Doors Close—Solvency Claimed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(Bulletin.)—The Knickerbocker Trust company has temporarily suspended payments at its main office on Fifth avenue and all its branches. The branch at 86 Broadway was the first to close. The depositors were told to return at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The cash in all the vaults, about 8 millions of dollars had been exhausted at that time.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Runs were started today on the four offices of the Knickerbocker Trust company, following the announcement of a sudden change of presidents last night. Stacks of money awaited the break in each branch and all demands were quickly met. At the main office on lower Broadway the line extended into the street. There was a long line at the Harlem branch and the

MISS G. ROTH DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Miss Louise Ruth Groth, the 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Groth, died this afternoon at her home at 2:30 o'clock, after a brief illness with heart failure.

Deceased was well known among the younger people and her loss will be greatly felt by her many friends. She leaves besides her father and mother three sisters and two brothers to mourn her loss.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later. Mrs. Theo. Mannstedt has charge.

CO-EDS WIN IN THEIR FOOD STRIKE

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The co-eds in Pearson's hall, Northwestern university, have won their "strike" for something lighter than corned beef and cabbage for dinner.

Since the "walk out" one day last week, an aesthetic diet has been the rule.

"I guess the housekeeper thought she was catering to a football team," the senior naively said. "While the food would have been very fine for men on the varsity teams, it was too solid to make brain tissue."

BIG BALLOON RACE COURSE VEERS EAST TOWARD CANADA WITH SHIFT OF THE WIND

JOHN B. WEBBER NEW POLICE CHIEF

CHOSEN AT SPECIAL MEETING OF BOARD LAST NIGHT

BYRNE'S RIGHT HAND MAN

Desk Sergeant of Local Department is Given Post Vacated by Death
of Late Hugh H. Byrne

At a special meeting of the police and fire commission last evening at the city hall John B. Webber, former desk sergeant at Central station, and recently a plain clothes man, was selected to succeed the late Chief Hugh H. Byrne as chief of the La Crosse police department.

The commissioners met secretly, even the officers on the force being unaware that an important meeting was being held. The action of the commission, however, was not unexpected, as it has been the general opinion that Mr. Webber would be appointed to the office.

Chief Webber is a comparatively young man, being about forty, and has been in the service since Sept. 5, 1898. He was before that employed by the street railway company and was at one time with the Milwaukee railroad.

Chief Webber became desk sergeant under Chief Byrne and became of recent years the confidential secretary and advisor of the chief. He was entrusted with all of the secrets of the department and is in a position to carry on the conduct of the efficient La Crosse department as it was conducted by the late Chief Byrne.

Mr. Webber is reticent regarding his appointment. He will take immediate charge.

L. C. Colman, secretary of the police and fire commission said after the meeting that Mr. Webber was familiar with the workings of the department, that he had been efficient in the service and that his selection was unanimous with the commission. There were no other candidates voted upon.

For eight years previous to his appointment to the police force he was employed on the force of Claim Agent John A. Hindsey of the Milwaukee road, accepting the position with Mr. Hindsey at the time that Hugh H. Byrne was appointed chief. His duties in that position gave him an insight in the detective business, and this knowledge will now become a useful resource.

The new chief received several messages of congratulation today.

500 PASSENGERS IN PERIL IN THREATENED WRECK OF GREAT SHIP

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Carrying five hundred passengers the Russian steamer Lithuania is ashore off Skinninge, according to a dispatch from Halmö, Sweden. It is almost impossible for life savers to reach the boat, and the passengers and crew are in grave danger.

MORE BRUTAL CRIMES AGAINST THE JEWS

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—News has been received of a fresh outbreak against the Jews at Odessa. Thirty men and women were mutilated by the rioters in an attempt to make them surrender a national treasure, and one Jewish boy's eyes were gouged out.

BURGLARS PROVE TO BE CHILDREN

AURORA, Ill., Oct. 22.—A long run of robberies of stores in the downtown district of Aurora has been cleared through the confession of three child burglars, Joseph Lavier, 8 years old; Thomas Hunter, 6 years old; and Reinhardt Stein, aged 11. Their arrest came through the sale of a horse they had stolen and sold for $4.

Reports From Various Cities Indicate All Is Safe and Race
Will Make Record

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 22.—(Balloons Weather Special.)—Fair weather will continue throughout the north central states, with south-west winds. The winds will gradually shift to west this afternoon and to north-west tonight.

LINDEN, Ind., Oct. 2.—Three unidentified balloons going slow passed in a southeasterly direction over Linden at 7:30 a. m.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 22.—An unidentified balloon passed two miles north of here at 9:05 this morning.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—One of the balloons at Linden passed slowly six miles north of here. It is the German balloon.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Two balloons, one of them the United States No. 3, passed over Grays Lake, twenty miles west, at 6:30 this morning. The United States was sighted over Zion City, both balloons passing out onto the big lake. At Grays Lake they passed 150 feet from the ground, and one of the aeronauts asked the townspeople through a megaphone the name of the town. At Zion City the pilot of the United States shouted: "Everything is all right aboard."

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The balloons seem to be sailing in sets of threes. It is now thought three passed over Waukegan or vicinity over the lake, that three are sailing in the direction of Ann Arbor, Mich. Six took this course from St. Louis, and three got as far as the vicinity of Indianapolis and then went southeast, while the others kept going northeast. At Flora, Ind., four balloons, two going southeast, and two northeast, passed at 9 o'clock this morning.

DETROIT, Oct. 22.—Hersey, in the United States balloon, crossed Lake Michigan, arriving over South Michigan at 10 a. m. He was last reported at Hickory Corners, Berry county, headed toward Saginaw and Lake Huron. His present course will carry him into Canada.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 22.—The balloon that passed through this city is the German "Pommern." The pilot dropped a note saying "all's well. We have 20,000 pounds of ballast left."

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 22.—Word from the contestants in the International Balloon race is coming in, indicating that in a general way the planned direction of the voyage is being followed, a slight shift in the wind having changed the trend only slightly east of the anticipated course. The ascension was a spectacular success, the German balloons taking the upper strata and lending much to the picturesque of the affair. A pilot balloon sent up just ahead of the racers took a general north-easterly direction. Then, in the presence of more than 100,000 spectators

Digesto

MALT EXTRACT

Like the Famous Hamm's Beer it

"Leads them All"

In placing the thousandth and first Malt Extract on the market, it has been our aim to arrive at something better than just an ordinary extract of malt. There is a very strong demand for a malt which not only contains all the vitalizing elements of the various ingredients in the highest degree, but one that is palatable as well.

In DIGESTO we have evolved a perfect Malt Extract. It is composed of the highest grade of Imported Hops, the choicest selections of Barley and pure Artesian Water. In the brewing of Digesto, we have overcome that sweet taste which is objectionable in nearly all Malt Extracts, and have produced an extract so pleasant to the taste and so beneficial in the results obtained from its use that a success, fully as great as that attained by the famous Hamm's Beer, is assured.

ILLINOIS FOOTBALL AT MADISON TODAY

ILLINI TRICKS TO BE USED AGAINST VARSITY

GREAT CROWD IS EXPECTED

Big Advance Sale Indicates There will be Much Interest in Game With Illinois on Saturday.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 22.—Wisconsin's varsity football team will have a taste of Illinois football at Camp Randall this afternoon when it will line up against the freshmen. Coach McCarthy has returned from Champaign, where he officiated Saturday as umpire, and immediately began to teach the Illinois plays to the freshman to be used against the regulars today and Wednesday.

McCarthy says that Huff has been drilling several good plays into his disciples and that Wisconsin will have to "play some" to break them up. He is much worried over the drawing back of Van Hook, the 220 pound guard to center on the defense several yards back of the line, a clever scheme by which Huff expects to break up both center and end plays. One of the Illinois forward passes is also causing worry as it was largely on this play that the Illini were able to score against Chicago.

The team was given a fast signal practice last night all of the men being out except Dittman at tackle, whose injuries are proving more serious than was expected. The coaches say, however, that he will play Saturday.

Today and Wednesday night the team will play against the freshmen, and Thursday and Friday will be marked by light signal practice.

More than 1,000 tickets were sold yesterday the first day of the sale for the Illinois game. This is the largest number sold at a time for several years being equal to the total attendance at the first game last season. Even the coeds took a surprising interest in the sale and bought large batches of tickets. The attendance is expected to reach 4,000.

BOXING PAVILION WILL SEAT 4,000

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—There is a chance of some high grade boxing bouts being held near Chicago soon. A local promoter has secured a pavilion close to the city with a seating capacity of 4,000, and as soon as transportation facilities can be arranged for he will attempt to stage a ten round mill between Jack O'Keefe and Packey McFarland, the local lightweights.

O'Keefe is training hard. It is claimed, for a fight Wednesday night at Gary, Ind., with Otto Siggoff, one of the old timers of the game. He says 135 pounds at 3 o'clock is the best weight he can make now, which would seem to be a bar to his getting on with McFarland, who has refused to weigh more than 133 pounds at the ring side.

CHILD FALLS OUT IS NOT INJURED

When Mrs. Thomas Herman, 706 State street, yesterday afternoon heard a stifled cry and a thud on the ground outside, she rushed out to find that her child had fallen from the second story window where she had left it playing upon the floor. She was surprised to see the child coming toward her with outstretched arms, not hurt in the least.

The window ledge is very low and the child had climbed to it and fallen out during a short interval when left alone.

That the little boy who is but two years of age, was not more severely injured, seems a miracle.

FORM PLAN TO PROMOTE SALES

The special committee of the La Crosse Manufacturers and Jobbers' Union, which was appointed to formulate a plan whereby La Crosse people will be urged to patronize home industries, met at the La Crosse club last evening. Although no definite plan was outlined, a strong place will be made for the buying of home goods. A special meeting of the union has been set for next Friday evening when the report of the committee will be heard and a plan formulated.

ONE THING AT A TIME.

(Philadelphia Press.) The president is not vote-seeking, and he has his idea about river improvement, which he developed at the Memphis convention. This is that one big river improvement at a time is enough. He does not favor pooling issues and claims. Fourteen feet through the valley of the Mississippi from its mouth to the City of Chicago is a big undertaking, and if the federal government is going to finance the work it cannot at the same time improve the Missouri, the Ohio and the Mississippi above the mouth of the Illinois river.

A girl seldom begins to take life seriously until she has been up against one case of unrequited love. It depends upon who gets it whether sympathy is sweet or bitter.

REFORM IN ALL ATHLETICS TO DIE

DULL FOOTBALL AND OTHER SPORTS UNPOPULAR

ANNUAL MEET COMES SOON

And Rumor Says Conference Schools Will Return to the Old Conditions

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Reaction from the wave of college athletic reforms is in the air and according to reports being circulated on western college campuses the storm is billed to burst at the annual fall meeting of the Intercollegiate Conference association, scheduled for Nov. 23. Three schools—Wisconsin, Purdue and Northwestern—are said to be maintaining something of a reform front, but liberal minds say the last support is to be removed next month.

Little doubt is maintained but that seven games will be embodied in the western football schedules in 1908, displacing the five game rule which has prevailed for the last two years. With seven games the last objection which Michigan had to the reforms is removed and the school is scheduled to once more become a factor in western college athletics, authorities say.

The reinstatement of the training table in good standing by the conference body is another "ultimate result" looked for by one alumnus. The training table matter is one which only has been under discussion during the last few days, but according to a census of votes only Purdue, Wisconsin and Northwestern stand in its way, Michigan, Chicago, Minnesota, Indiana, Iowa and Illinois being reported favorable to its re-establishment in western schools.

Michigan's return to western circles and the position which it will hold when it eventually takes up its place among the top notchers in football, track and baseball is already becoming a source of enjoyment to collegians who are following the fortunes of the Wolverine university in its circular path around the western college situation.

The general opinion is that the fate of the reform period is sealed and that the reaction which has set in will be fully voiced at the fall meeting. The spring meeting declared through Secretary Morgan that it did not feel that there had been a thorough test of the new theories as yet.

SEVERAL GIANTS TO BE DEPOSED

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—According to a person in close touch with President John T. Brush and Manager John J. McGraw of the New York National league club, there will be a big shakeup in the Giants for next year and at least four of the oldest players put in their places. Manager McGraw was displeased with the poor showing made by some of his players, which was responsible for the team finishing in fourth place, and as soon as the season was over he did not hesitate to say that he intended to get rid of some of his men. While it is not known which of the players will be "fired," the chances are that McCann, Dahlen, Browne and McGhinny are on the list.

Advice to Rheumatics.

Noted Physician Tells How to Prevent and Cure Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

(By Geo. Edmund Flood, M. D.) If you would avoid Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Troubles be moderate in the consumption of heavy, rich foods, substitute as far as possible soups, broths, fresh milk, and drink water—lots of water. Take plenty of time to eat, and don't eat after you have had enough, even if it does taste good. If your work is confining take a moderate amount of exercise each day in the open air.

Of course, neither diet, water, rest nor exercise will cure these afflictions. I advise them as preventives only. For the benefit of the readers of this article who are now afflicted with Rheumatism, Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Trouble, and desire to be cured quickly, I give below, complete in every detail, the famous prescription which has made me so successful in the treatment of these diseases. It is the most certain cure that I have ever used. It is pleasant to take, it is not expensive, can be filled by any druggist, and I believe it is the greatest prescription for Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Troubles ever written. If you are a sufferer, save this, take it to your druggist and have it filled, or better still, get the ingredients yourself and mix them at home by shaking them up in a bottle:

Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, ½ ounce; Concentrated Barkola Compound, 1 ounce; Aromatic Elixir, 4 ounces.

Adult dose, take one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime children, one-fourth to one-half teaspoonful after meals.

After you are cured follow the advice I have given you in regard to diet, exercise and water, and you will not need the services of a physician again for these ailments.

WEBSTER THE MAN.
The board of police and fire commissioners had no hesitancy in appointing John Webster to succeed the late Hugh H. Byrne as chief of police. There was no lack of good material, both inside and outside the department, but every argument including preponderance of ability,
natural genius and experience, urged that Webster was the man. The selection is so natural that any other would have been the occasion for comment.
John Webster has been an apt pupil of an able tutor. He possesses the qualifications that make the good officer. As he had the confidence of his chief, so he is entitled to the confidence of his public. As he knew the ways of the chief, and through him the ways of the big men in the police business, he is equipped better than any other man to go on with the work where it was dropped.
We believe that the keen eye of John Webster that looks through men and never forgets, will show
him the way to keep the La Crosse police service at the top notch of efficiency.

OUTSIDE VIEWS OF "BOB."
Perhaps in the case of Senator La Follette the prophet is not without honor in his own country, but it is a fact that we have become so familiar with his status, here in Wisconsin, that we hardly appreciate the expansion of the impression he is making in newer and wider fields.
Here at home we are pretty much
all for sending "Bob" to the national convention with a solid delegation behind him, but among those who want this there is quite a spirit of, "Let him have the honor of a favorable mention from home, and then we'll get on the band wagon." It might be surprising to some of the faint-hearted were they to find, in the convention, that La Follette is the band wagon. But it is possible.
The "frame-up" is all against him,
but he is a hard man to ignore. The Washington Herald reminds us of that when it says:
"There is more than passing interest in political circles in Washington in the apparent growth of the La Follette presidential boom.
He has a strong following in Iowa,
Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska, and Kansas, and it is regarded as significant that in one of the recent polls made by the Chicago Tribune
he stood second, next to Taft, although his name had not been included in the list of possible candidates."
That Kansas, for instance, is thinking a lot about Senator La Fo-lette, is evident from the journalistic expressions that are appearing there.
The Atchison Globe follows the observation, "Say what you will about La Follette, he is worth 100 ordinary congressmen," with the advice to young men in the public life of Kansas to follow the example of the Badger statesman.
Commenting upon the above article Hon. James L. Bristow, known to fame as the original "house-cleaning" assistant postmaster general,

now publisher of the Salina (Kansas) Journal, goes into the reasons for the strength of Senator La Fo-lette, in the following editorial:
"The Atchison Globe, in an article on the opportunity of young Dan Anthony, appeals to him to follow
the example of La Follette. Closing the article the Globe says: 'Say what you will about La Follette, he is worth 100 ordinary congressmen.'
The country needs more like him."
"It is true that La Follette has accomplished more during his brief career than 100 ordinary congressmen have accomplished in theirs.
His marvelous physical endurance,
his intense energy, his great earnestness, his inflexible determination and undaunted courage, have made him a tremendous power in national politics though he has been a member of the senate less than two years. But it is not La Follette's industry, courage, or ability that gives him the influence to the admiration of men, but the principles that La Follette stands for, the ideas that he advocates, are what give him weight with the thinking people of this country.
"Courage and ability devoted to a good cause count for much, and when the people find a man inspired by the highest motives, advocating the right things with zeal and courage, then they accept him as a leader and with enthusiasm follow his leadership; and this is the position that La Follette is rapidly establishing in this country. He has severe critics, but those critics are from the ultra conservative elements of the population, who are against the progress that goes with changed conditions, or they are interested in the evils which La Follette has attacked.
The most hostile antagonism to La Follette comes from the corporations. There are other men who can not be classed as subservient to the corporations, but who are so conservative in their mental temperament
that they shrink from the approval of the remedies which La Follette advocates for the evils which have crept into our commercial and industrial life.
"La Follette belongs to the progressive type. He is not wedded to any of the idols of the past. He may not receive the high political honors which the country has to bestow, but to even the casual observer of history it clearly appears that the men who accomplish the most, who make the greatest impression upon the policies of the country, are frequently sorely disappointed in the political recognition which comes as a reward for their services.
"Neither Webster nor Clay could be president, though the place was easily secured by Martin Van Buren and Polk. La Follette may never be president, though he will accomplish more than four-fifths of the men who have held that office. In Mc-Kinley and Roosevelt the country has been fortunate in having for its presidents great political leaders.
McKinley had become great as a member of congress, while Roosevelt developed his greatness as president. Too frequently in the history of our country, our presidents have been compromise candidates of inferior ability. But to the man in public life the most gratifying results of his service should be the consciousness that he has accomplished something for the good of the country and has impressed his personality upon the thought of the times. This La Follette is achieving in an unusual degree."

THE "RUMMAGE SALE."
The advice against the "rummage sale," offered today by one signed,
"A Well Wisher of the Church," may have been more aggressive than the circumstances warrant. However, there is plenty of scope for argument, and it seems not unlikely that were the church organizations and city charitable institutions to thrash
the subject out together, it might be unanimously concluded that a better method could be adopted. The same vigor now used in getting the unused articles together for the rummage sales should be employed in getting these things into the hands of distributing agents under the supervision of the charities. Then not w could buy best, but who needed most,
would be the basis of distribution.

The arrest of the Wallings in Russia, after they have spent some two years in that country inciting rebellion, is not surprising. It is probable that any government would have done as much as did Russia, especially were the agitation to have been made at a time when insurrection was rife. The fact that the Czar is the worst of despots, and that we sympathize with the feelings of the Wallings, cannot affect the circumstance that they have got just what they "had coming," and that Russia's act was a normal one. If these people are dragged out, a second time by the way, through the efforts of this government they will be lucky. If they are so foolish as to again plunge into danger, the affair will scarcely concern the state department.
The assertion of a southern congressman that there are no bears, only coons, in the canebrakes where Roosevelt hunted, sounds reasonable.
We have all heard about the "Little Alabama Coon."

The Wall street crisis has been officially declared "over," and the edict will stand, a daily run on a bank or two to the contrary notwithstanding.
It is noted with concern that neither Martin Erickson nor John Rackleman was a candidate for the office of chief of police.

JUST LIFE

Louise.
Of girls I've known a plenty, and of real good girls a few,
I've felt the thrill of dark eyes,
known the tenderness of blue;
I have known some romantic girls,
and other girls who tease,
But somehow there was something that I liked about Louise.
Louise was not so pretty that the world was at her feet,
But her eyes were blue and honest,
and she certainly was sweet;
Her hair was soft and wavy and
'twas kissed by every breeze,
And I'd get almost jealous, when it tapered with Louise.
Louise would touch my hand sometimes at parting or before,
And I would think that paradise
could not be very far;
A yearning would come over me that nothing could appease,
It's strange, but there was something that I fancied in Louise.
I told her once I had a longing in my heart for her,
I held her right close to me, but she didn't try to stir,
And then I held her closer, but she didn't mind the squeeze,
And the more I learned to know her,
the more I liked Louise.
She had a disposition that was Heaven in itself,
I knew she loved me only, and she loved me for myself;
I knew she was as constant as the One who always sees
The falling of the sparrow—that girl of girls, Louise.
There never was a girl in all the world I loved so well,
'Twas Heaven to be near her; when she was gone, ah! well,
I used to sit and dream that I was pleading, on my knees,
And the more I thought about her,
well—the more I loved Louise.
Of course her name was not Louise
—that name we use to rhyme,
Her name may have been Mary, or,
perhaps 'twas Evelyn;
There may have been no girl at all,
this verse may be to tease,
But anyway there's something that we like about Louise.

Tip to Farmers.
A farmer has made a discovery
that will be of vast importance to farmers during the dry season. He has found that by planting onions
and potatoes in the same field in alternate rows, the onions, being so strong, bring tears to the eyes of the potatoes in such volumes that the roots of the vines are kept moist and a big crop is raised in spite of the drought.—Exchange.
The unsuccessful man is always a complainer.
"Do It Now."
A well meaning friend offers this
to help fill up:
"There is at least one Englishman who has concluded, after trial, that he does not like American ideas.
"He is a London dry goods merchant who returned from a visit to the United States with notions about procrastinations being the chief of time remarkably developed. He brought with him a number of cards
bearing the excellent printed maxim,
'Do it now,' and hung these up in his office and about the store.
"Within a fortnight of the advent of the cards the chief cashier departed with the sum of $10,000,
three clerks and waiters from the proprietor with requests for increased salaries, and his best lady typewriter eloped with a very business-like and good looking shop walker."
When a reporter quits the day with a headache it's a pretty good sign
the news has been "bum."
A Trempealeau Contribution.
E. H. C. of Trempealeau county submits the following which he believes to be "just life":
"A fat old farmer, who was much addicted to making extravagant comparisons and absurd wishes and threats, once saw a flock of his neighbor's sheep in his wheat field.
Having no immediate way of driving the trespassing animals out, he gave vent to his feelings in the following language: 'If I had a dog here that was as big as a rhinoceros, as swift as a streak of blue lightning,
as fierce as the wrath of Heaven,
and with teeth as long as a rail-cut
and sharp as a sword of Damascus,
and didn't make that wheat-field smell stronger of fresh mutton than Hades does of roasted sinners, I'd give Old Nick my head for a football. Confound 'em.' And the sheep kept on chewing."

the latest international race are all
up in the air.

SPOTLIGHTS
Tonight, "Under Southern Skies."
One of the early bookings for our city is Lottie Blair Parker's beautiful and interesting southern drama "Under Southern Skies." All who have sat under the spell of this interesting story of life in Louisiana will surely avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing it again.
The company employed to enact
the various roles is, if possible, stronger this season than ever before, and the further promise is made that this beautiful play will this year, both artistically and scenically, be better than ever. "Under Southern Skies" gives a pure wholesome lesson that touches the heartstrings in the pathetic scenes and excites the risibilities in the humorous ones. A further interest in this absorbing play is in the quaint costuming of the bevy of beautiful girls, whose youth and gay spirits in the various Hallowe'en games lend an added zest
and charm to the dramatic interest of the play.
"Lost Paradise."
When managers of opera houses
will go out of their way to indorse
a company, it is a sure sign that that company is way above the average,
and that is what the managers
throughout the country are doing for the P. G. McLean and Nana Bryant Co. So well have this pair of western stars pleased those in power, that the manager of the La Crosse theater has received numerous letters and telegrams indorsing the McLean-Bryant Co., which will open here the 23rd for four nights, their first play being H. C. DeMill's wonderful labor play, "Lost Paradise." In the part of Reuben Warner, P. G. McLean is said to have no equal, while Miss Bryant is too clever and too beautiful to need indorsement. The two young stars are supported by a strong company and two carloads of scenery,
this means two real carloads of scenery, not a few trunks. The settings for the great factory scene in "Lost Paradise" alone is worth the price of admission. Everyone should take advantage of the opportunity of seeing these clever people in the great play. At La Crosse theater tomorrow night.
At the Bijou.
The Bijou was filled to overflowing
last night at both performances
to witness a really excellent vaudeville show.
The Bowen Brothers are two handsome young fellow who do a very interesting turn, being recalled for en-cores and who seem to please the audience very much.
They appear very gentlemanly, not a bit "fresh," and it almost seems a pity they are not earning their living by their heads instead of their heels.
Bessie Allen in singing and dancing does a rather time-worn turn, but her voice is fairly good and her stage appearance pleasing.
The sketch team, Mack and Elliot,
in their comedy playlet "The New Minister" present a turn that pleases and Mr. Mack's impersonation of the bill collector who imbibes too freely
is very good.
The headliner this week is "Al-
bini the great," magician, illusionist,
etc., who certainly has a mighty fine
act. His illusions are excellent, especially the last one with the trunk
on legs—"if it only didn't have a door that let down in front"—but then it's good anyway. His telepathy or mind reading work is most interesting and keeps the audience
in a state of excitement.
Mr. Albini has rather a peculiar manner and he makes the mistake
of letting his act drag all through;
it could be hurried up a little and enjoyed much more. However, it is surely worth your while to see this turn.
The Bijou boasts a new pianist and illustrated song singer this week,
both of whom do creditable work.
Mr. LaVallie has a fine voice and sings well.
The moving pictures consist of
"Are You an Elk?"—a conglomeration of useless horrors, and "Man, Hat and Cocktail," which is about as useless, though they both seem to amuse. Kreutz's orchestra plays every Monday night.

THE GIANT'S STRENGTH
BY BASIL KING
(Copyrighted by Harper & Bros.)
It was the first puff of the trumpet of celebrity, and in it Paula's name counted for much. The fact caused her an uneasiness which increased as her father remained longer away. For the first time in her life she had taken an important step without his knowledge. For the first time in her life she had concealed anything from him, and hesitated still to make it known. The project undertaken as one of private benevolence had become a matter of almost public interest. As the girl saw her name in print, side by side with Winship's, she dreaded lest some stray paragraph should fall under her father's eye. It was chiefly with a view to atonement that she secured the privilege of going alone to meet him at the station, on the day following her talk with Lady Alice at Armenonville.
"Papa, I've something to confess to you," she began, as the victoria descended on the long, populous thoroughfares leading from the Gare du Nord. The crowd, the street cries, and the rumble of traffic gave her courage. She felt less likely to fall into the emotional.
"Fire away," he said, good-naturedly.
"I've been having my portrait painted."
"What! Again? Well, that is a crime. There will be no pardon for it, unless the guilty object is forgotten to the state—and, 'Tat, c'est moi.'"
"You mayn't want it when I've told you all. It has turned out to be a very remarkable work."
"That's against it, of course."
"I didn't think anything about it
—as a portrait—when I began; but Lady Alice Holroyd says it's very striking, and sure to make the artist's reputation. The newspapers have said so, too."
"Ah, well! That's a pity. But one can't always keep one's name
out of the papers, worse luck."
"And I've promised him to let it go to the Salon."
"You might have hesitated a little. You were in the salon last year, and the year before. You don't want to be taken as an annual, dear."
"No. I thought of that. I shouldn't have done it for my own sake. But I was anxious that he should have whatever advantage he could get from showing it."
"Who's—he?"
"He's a friend of Lady Alice's.
The Duke introduced him to me the first evening you took me to the Casino at Monte Carlo. After we came home George told me who he was,
and what connection his family had with ours."
"What's his name?"
"That's what you mayn't like,
papa."
"Well, it's his name, dear, I suppose, whether I like it or not. I didn't baptize him, so I'm not responsible."
"It's Winship."
"Surely not old Roger—?"
"Yes, papa. The very same."
"The devil it is! Why didn't you tell me that before, dear?"
"I suppose I should have done it,
if you hadn't been away."
"But I wasn't beyond the reach of letters, dear—and you wrote nearly every day."
"The truth is, papa, darling, that I was afraid you mightn't approve of it."
"All the more reason, then, why you should have told me."
"We did talk it over—mamma,
George, Laura, and I—and we came to the conclusion that it was just what you would like. You're always so good, papa, to people who've been your opponents, and—"
"I thought you said you were afraid I wouldn't approve of it."
"I had that feeling, too. You see,
I was so anxious to do something for them. You've no idea how poor they are—and the mother is blind, and—"
"Oh, she's living yet, is she?"
"Yes, papa, and such a saint!"
"Then she must have changed for the better. Well, we'll let it be. If there's any harm done—"
"Oh, but there isn't, papa."
"So much the better, then. I'm sorry, dear, that you've been brought into contact with these people—"
"But they're not a bit like what you think them."
"I'm sorry, all the same; and now that the business is over, as I suppose it is, you can let the acquaintance drop."
"It isn't quite over—the business,
I mean."
"Well, when it is, then," he said
shortly. "Now tell me how your mother is," he went on, in another tone, as they turned into the Champse-Elysees. "Does she suffer less?"
"She's very brave about it. Sometimes I can't tell whether she suffers much or not."
"And sometimes you can. Is that it?"
"Of course, when she has a paroxysm she can't hide it. But I don't think they come quite so often now."
"What with one thing and another,"
he said, moodily, "I'm afraid I've stayed away too long. But I couldn't help it; such great interests were at stake."
"I'm sorry if I've added to your cares," she murmured, laying her hand on his arm. "You know that,
don't you, papa, dear?"
"Yes, dear, I know it," he answered, briefly, and sank into silence
until they reached home.
It was only in the evening that he spoke again of the subject Paula had so much at heart.
"Come up to my room," he said,
as they rose from the table after dinner. They had dined alone, Mrs.
Trafford had not left her room, and George and Laura were out. During the meal he had been unusually si-

5807 Catway Coat,
34 to 42 bust.

To be Made With Round or Pointed Back, Long or Three-Quarter Sleeves.

Unquestionably cutaway styles are having extended vogue and very welcome the fact is for they are jaunty, smart in effect and altogether satisfactory. This coat is one of the simplest and best and is adapted whenever it is becoming; the coat and is eminently to be desired for both. In this instance it is made of mahogany colored broadcloth with binding of black silk braid, but,
while this binding is new and chic, stitched edges are quite correct. The pointed back is novel and desirable
whenever it is becoming but the coat can be made round at that point and each wearer should choose the style that suits her the better. Sleeve length, too, is to be determined by each wearer, both full and three quarter being correct with all seasonable suitings and cloakings.
The coat is made with fronts side-fronts, backs, side-backs and under-arm gores and is finished with regulation collar and lapels. The sleeves are made in two pieces each, with roll-over cuffs.
The quantity of material required
for the medium size is 4 1/2 yards 27, 2 1/2 yards 44 or 2 1/2 yards 52 inches wide, with 5 1/2 yards of braid.
The pattern 5807 is cut in sizes
for a 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inch bust measure and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents.
(If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

HOW TO GET RID OF FAT

A Remarkable Discovery That Can Reduce Fat Harmlessly at the Rate of a Pound a Day.

It attacks abnormal tissue with unerring accuracy, and causes a gradual, harmless but effective reduction in weight, and without leaving wrinkles which are nearly always present after taking drugs and other dangerous materials commonly called "anti-fats."

There is nothing "just as good" as Rengo. For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per full sized box, or by mail prepaid by The Rengo Co., 3185 Rengo Bldg., Detroit, Mich. Out of Sight.

"Out of sight, out of mind," is an old saying which applies with special force to a sore, burn or wound that's been treated with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. COURT UPHOLDS THE FROHOCK WILL

JUDGE BRINDLEY RENDERS IMPORTANT DECISION

DEATH-BED UTTERANCE VITAL

Court Incorporates It in Long Decision in Which Last Testament of Woman Stands

The feeble utterance of the name of her granddaughter, the chief beneficiary under the will of Mrs. Julia Frohock, 215 Mill street, while she lay on her death-bed in the St. Francis hospital, proved one of the salient points in defense of the will, which was contested by the two sons of the woman, Fred B. Frohock and George Frohock. Judge Brindley, in probate court, yesterday rendered a decision, upholding the will on all points, thus bequeathing to George Trilby Lemke, aged 12 years, the majority of the Frohock estate, valued at $4,000.

The little girl is a daughter of the insane daughter of Mrs. Frohock, and during the life of her grandmother was a constant companion of the aged woman. During life Mrs. Frohock often spoke of her plan to leave the bulk of the estate to her granddaughter. So strong a point was the utterance of the name of the little girl on her deathbed, that Judge Brindley incorporated it in his opinion.

Mrs. Frohock died on May 29, 1907, and five days before this her will was drawn. In the absence of an attorney, Judge J. J. Fruit, of the circuit court, consented to draw the will. The sons of Mrs. Frohock contested the instrument, claiming it was secured by fraud, that the woman was not of sufficient mind to express her opinions, and that the will was not probated in due accordance with the law. The arguments were made on Aug. 20, and the case taken under advisement, Judge Brindley rendering a long written opinion yesterday afternoon. The opinion follows in part:

"Objections are made to the probate of the will of Julia A. Frohock by her sons, Fred B. Frohock and George Frohock on the ground that the will was not duly executed; that the deceased was not of sound mind, when the protested will was drawn; that its execution as procured by fraud and undue influence.

"There seems to be no question as to the execution of the will in legal form and the controversy has been directed to the two remaining questions. After fully considering the evidence and arguments herein, the court finds Mrs. Julia A. Frohock died on May 29, 1907, and that the will in question was made on May 24, about four and a half days previous to her death; that she left her homestead, worth less than $5,000, mortgaged for $300, and household goods and no other property, that she was 65 years of age at the time of her death; that she left surviving as her heirs at law, two sons, the contestants, and a daughter, incurably insane, all over 21 years of age; that she was on good terms with all the children; that the principal beneficiary under her will is a granddaughter, George T. Lemke, aged 12 years, and the daughter of said insane person; that this granddaughter was brought up by the deceased, lived with her all her life and her granddaughter was much attached to her; that Mrs. Frohock had told different people, friends of hers, that she intended to will, leaving her property, after payment of debts, to her granddaughter George; that during her last illness she was solicitous about George, and spoke her name in a whisper in presence of one of the contestants on Sunday afternoon, about two and a half days before she died, when the child was brought to her bedside. Upon careful consideration of the testimony, the court is of the opinion that the main question to decide is, did the testatrix, at the time of said making of said protested will have sufficient mental capacity to make a will, under the rule laid down by the supreme court."

Here Judge Brindley quotes a supreme court authority. The decision continues with the findings as follows: "That on May 24, 1907, the said testatrix duly made, published and declared the instrument in controversy as her last will and testament, and that said instrument is the last will and testament, executed according to law; that at the time of making and signing said will, the said Julia Frohock was 65 years of age, of sound mind and had sufficient mental capacity to make said will and that no undue influence was used.

"And, as conclusion of law find: 'That at the time of the making of said will, the testatrix had sufficient mental capacity to make same, that the said instrument is her last will and testament of said deceased in all things duly executed, published and declared as such. Let judgment and decree be entered accordingly.'

In the will, each of the two sons receives $5 as a remembrance, while Charles W. Lemke, a grandson, receives the same amount. The executor of the estate, Albert W. Barnett, must provide Ellen Lemke, the insane daughter, with clothing during her life, and also other necessities of life.

Attorneys Morris & Hartwell represented the heirs in the contest.

ROAD SHOP BURNED
$100,000 LOSS TO MILWAUKEE ROAD
Workmen Lose Tools and Other Valuables

One of the most important buildings of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul shops, at West Milwaukee, the large planing mill upon which all other shops depend, was destroyed by fire Sunday night. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

The building, which is 320 feet long and 90 feet wide, and which was filled with machinery and valuable tools, was completely burned.

About 150 men worked in the mill. Each man owned the tools with which he worked. The individual loss to the workmen will average $200. Some of the men own tools valued at $500. In almost every instance the men carried no insurance, believing in the safety of the building.

The loss of the mill comes at a time when a car shortage has been taxing its capacity to the utmost. The loss of the building itself is the smallest item.

The building contained machinery for making woodwork for locomotives and cars, and all other buildings depend upon this mill. Parts of cars were made there, and are then sent to the paint shops and other finishing departments, where the cars are turned out ready for use.

Until the machinery installed in the building can be replaced, no cars can be turned out at the Milwaukee shops. The car shortage will become even more acute.

He is now engaged with the Ives pond company but may sever his position with them at the first of the year to go into the retail business for himself.

DOG WALKS FROM LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

"VERSUS" MAKES REMARKABLE JOURNEY TO OLD HOME

WENT WEST WITH HIS MASTER

Left Here in July With Brimberg Family, But Comes Over Many States to North Side Home

Taken from its home, 817 Logan street the first of July, to Lincoln, Nebraska, and returning this morning after walking the entire distance, is the strange story of Versus, the large Newfoundland dog owned by Otto Brimberg, a former resident of the North side, who is now a resident of Lincoln.

The first of July the Brimberg family left the North side for their new home and decided to take their pet dog with them. The dog accordingly was shipped in the baggage car and with the exception of being taken out once or twice to change cars saw nothing of the territory over which he was traveling until he finally landed in Lincoln.

The dog was not contented with his new home, however, and soon disappeared. Just how long the dog was on the road or what route he took is not known, but at any rate the dog was found lying in a half starved condition, foot sore and weary, on the porch of its former home on Logan street this morning.

The house which was occupied by the Brimbergs is now occupied by the family of J. W. Crow. At first, when the dog was discovered by Mrs. Crow, she was frightened and was disposed to drive the dog away, when a neighbor happened along and recognized it as the one owned by Mr. Brimberger. When the identity of the dog was established it was immediately taken in and treated to one of the finest meals that it had enjoyed for many days.

The dog, naturally a large, massive and powerful animal, was so wasted by its months of long and tiresome traveling that nothing more than its frame with the skin hung on it was left. The feet of the animal were blistered from constant travel. A neighbor boy was dispatched to a near-by butcher shop to procure meat for the dog and it devoured it like a wild animal. The dog since his arrival here last night has done nothing but groan and sleep, but in spite of its fatigue it seems perfectly content with its old home and new masters.

Every effort will be made by Mr. and Mrs. Crow to keep the dog and it will in all probability be allowed to stay unless the original owner demands it.

The distance by rail from Lincoln to La Crosse is 580 miles, but in the round-about way taken by the dog this distance was probably doubled or tripled.

GOAL OF $3,500 CONTEST IS NOW IN CLOSE SIGHT

SIX REMAINING DAYS IN THE ENTIRE COUPON WAR—VOTING OF PAST WEEK MADE MANY CHANGES—MORE SURPRISES FOR THURSDAY'S REPORT

MUST VOTE THIS WEEK OR NEVER

One More Opportunity for Candidates to Redeem Themselves and Get a Sufficient Number of Votes to Win One of the Best Prizes.

The vote totals of the many candidates in The Tribune's $3,500 contest, as reported in yesterday's paper, created no end of interest and surprise among those who had not stopped to think that there are many hard working, energetic contestants in the field who, up to yesterday, had not before proclaimed themselves. The big counts recorded yesterday were but forerunners of what may be expected in Thursday's report. The polls for the last published report, before the contest winds up for good, will close at noon tomorrow. Those who are anxious to increase their totals and make as good a showing as possible in this last published count should cast their votes today or before 12 noon tomorrow without fail.

The contest has now entered its seventh and last week. There will be no more opportunities to secure extra votes. The second period of the last special vote offer closed Saturday night at 8 o'clock and was a gigantic success, out-rivaling the double vote offer of the week previous. No less than six contestants have signified their intention of winning the capital prize and many others are hot after the Haines piano.

A number of candidates who reported at The Tribune office yesterday stated that they had not as yet been able to see all their friends and acquaintances who had promised them subscriptions. In this respect it may be well to state in passing that those who have promises of subscriptions should see that they are fulfilled this week, and the subscriptions turned in to The Tribune office prior to 9 o'clock next Saturday evening. The great contest closes at that hour, and not one ballot will be issued thereafter. Subscriptions will have absolutely no voting value after next Saturday night, whatsoever, and the wise ones will get busy and exert every effort THIS WEEK.

One thousand votes may bring success to any candidate in the race. This number of ballots represents but one six-months' subscription to The Daily Tribune. It would be too bad to be defeated by such a small margin, but it is very likely to occur. That is why it will be to every contestant's advantage to get every possible order now, and not depend upon luck to win. Those who finally secure the magnificent awards will have won by dint of effort and personal endeavor. Perseverance exerts a big influence over success in this contest, and those who give up now, or rest on their oars, thinking the prize already won, will be the very ones who will likely be defeated. Keep up with the work. The goal is now in sight.

THROUGH FREIGHTS ARE DISCONTINUED

"FAST FREIGHTS" CANNOT MAKE REQUIRED TIME

IMPOSSIBLE TO FOLLOW LAW

It Requires Sixteen Hours to Make the Run Between La Crosse and Milwaukee

Under the new law which will not permit a railroad employee to work more than 16 hours at a time through crews have been abandoned on freights Nos. 65, 66, 68 and 69, of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, though the trains themselves are still running through from Milwaukee to La Crosse and vice versa.

These trains which are termed "fast freights" by the Milwaukee road are fast in name only, as they cannot make the time they should with the tonnage which is put on them. Instead of the 800 and 1,000 tons which is the usual thing in a fast freight, these trains are generally loaded to 1,500 and 1,600 tons. The regulation haul for ordinary freights is but little more—2,200 tons.

The crews have all been put in the "ring"—first in first out system. This is very objectionable to the crews of what were the through runs, who have had such runs for eight years or more. They claim that they cannot tell now at what time they will be at their own homes.

FARMERS BRINGING IN THEIR PRODUCE

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE FINE WEATHER PREVAILING

CITY SCALES A BUSY PLACE

Hay Is Bringing Good Price, But There Is Very Little Wood on the Local Market Now

Farmers are coming into the city quite freely with produce from the farm. The fall work on the farm is now pretty well completed with the exception of plowing and the prevailing high prices are an encouragement to get to market and realize on hay, grain and other products of the soil. Activity is manifested at different elevators in the city, where grain is handled. This activity is expected to continue for some time to come.

The weather the past week has been splendid for coming to the city with grain and produce and it is expected there will be more of this pleasant weather in the weeks to come. There should be a good fall to make up for the late spring.

The increased farmers' trade is shown at the city scales, where the present week has been one of the busiest for some time. There has been a great deal of grain and hay to be weighed and also rags and junk. There has been very little coal. A good deal of the coal that is sold in La Crosse is weighed only at the scales of dealers and does not go near the city scales.

A good source of income at the scales during the winter has not yet started. Reference is had to the measuring of wood offered for sale on the La Crosse market. While there is some wood brought in before the coming of snow the great bulk of it is not offered until there is good sleighing. Generally, however, there are no wood offerings before November and generally not very many until the latter part of that month. Quotations on wood may be expected to be fully as high as in previous years, as there has been no change in the conditions that might lead to expectations of a lower price. Each year the amount of wood that can be cut near La Crosse is decreased and a further haul is necessary to keep up the supply.

A fine quality of timothy hay is being marketed now and it is selling for $15 a ton, which is a high figure. Wild hay commands $9 to $10 a ton and quite a little of it is brought in also.

As will be seen by reference to the local markets all kinds of grain are bringing a good price on the La Crosse market.

The Badge of Honesty

Is on every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood purifier and invigorating tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherry bark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine. Send to Dr. E. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which quotes extracts from well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe, Ellingwood and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all wasting diseases where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, and through them the whole system. Thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing to apply to them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your drug-gist don't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not only though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

LA CROSSE DEPRIVED OF SEEING BALLOONS

WIND CHANGES JUST AT THE WRONG TIME

RACERS PASSED SOUTHEAST

Route Almost Strictly Followed, Though Aeronauts Are Driven Somewhat to East of Course

A shift in wind, from south and southwest to north and northwest, deprived La Crosse of the opportunity of viewing the nine balloons in the race for the James Gordon Bennett cup. The balloons left St. Louis, Mo., yesterday afternoon, and aerial conditions were suitable to bring the balloons over La Crosse.

Yesterday afternoon the wind was blowing almost directly from the south, with a southwest tendency continuing all the night. Previous to this the direction was southwest. If these conditions had remained, the balloons probably would have passed La Crosse, or near here, for the route planned sailing as far north as the Wisconsin line. The Mississippi was to have been followed from St. Louis to a point near Dubuque, Ia., the southern boundary of Wisconsin, 121 miles from La Crosse. At this point a shift to the east was planned, bringing the balloons into Canada and the northeast.

However, the south wind changed this morning, after blowing all night. From south, the wind went to north and northwest. This afternoon at 2 o'clock the northwest wind was prevailing. The change from south to north wind occurred at 10:15 o'clock this morning, according to the wind record in the weather bureau in the Federal building.

"Conditions were excellent for bringing the balloons near La Crosse," said Weather Observer Thompson this afternoon. "The change in direction deprived La Crosse residents of the opportunity to witness the flight."

RUN FOLLOWED BY BIG NEW YORK BANK SUSPENSION OF A

directors are helping the clerks at the Fifth avenue branch. Later demands were made at the Bronx branch. Director Hollins says there is no cause for alarm, that the bank has plenty of money.

The first run started after the opening this morning on the Harlem branch, and the police reserves were called out to keep the depositors in order. The bank officials brought out huge stacks of currency and dealt it out rapidly, declaring they have enough money to meet all calls.

There were seventy-five depositors in line seeking deposits when the main office was opened, and Harry Hollins, one of the directors, was seen helping the officials handle the rush.

The run was precipitated by the mystery that surrounds the resignation of President Charles T. Barney, at a meeting of the Knickerbocker directors yesterday afternoon. The Knickerbocker company is the largest in the city from the standpoint of deposits with one exception.

About the same time that this sudden and unexpected action became known in the financial district it was learned that the National Bank of Commerce had served notice both upon the Clearing House association and the Knickerbocker Trust company that it refused longer to clear for the latter institution. At the meeting at which Mr. Barney's resignation was accepted A. Foster Higgins was elected to his place.

Mr. Barney would give no explicit reason for his resignation tonight. In regard to the remarkable action of the National Bank of Commerce he said that he had no knowledge of it. It was taken after his resignation was offered and acted upon he said. National Bank of Commerce officers refused to make any comment whatever regarding the institution's summary proceeding.

Mr. Barney's statement in regard to the condition of the institution was confirmed by one of the state banking examiners tonight.

In regard to the condition of the Knickerbocker Trust company Mr. Barney laughed when it was suggested that the institution might be in some trouble.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Announcement of a new turn in affairs in the Fish-Harriman controversy for the control of the Illinois Central railroad was made at the Auditorium Annex. A world-wide battle for proxies will be begun at once in which Mr. Fish hopes to secure enough votes to enable him to ultimately oust Mr. Harriman from control of the railroad.

Until the date for the meeting the proxies in the hands of both sides will be held in safety deposit boxes. New com locations may arise when the books of the Illinois Central railroad company are opened this afternoon, permitting the sale and transfer of stock and a wholesale switching of proxies.

DIAMOND THIEVES FROM MINNEAPOLIS ARE NABBED HERE

day, viewed the prisoners and identified them. They will be taken to Minneapolis for trial.

Fought With Police.

The men were both arrested in a disorderly house and put up a fight against the police when nabbed. They were finally subdued and taken to the station where they are held on a charge of disorderly conduct pending the filing of the more serious charge.

The authorities secured a clue to the robbers through their selling the gems in Winona. They made the acquaintance of a young man there who sold the jewels for them for $600 to farmers and others, receiving, it is said, a commission of $150 for the sales. One of the stones was worth $800. The purchasers were greatly frightened and the stones changed hands several times, thus leading to the police's discovery of their whereabouts, and the whereabouts of the men.

The robbery was committed at 9 o'clock at night when the streets in front of the Cohen jewelry store were crowded. The man who broke the window grabbed the handful of diamonds and with a revolver in his other hand to keep off the crowd, ran into a saloon, through the back door, up an alley and into another saloon, from which he disappeared. He evidently had the deal well planned in advance.

When Mr. J. W. Cohn arrived in La Crosse he was taken to the cells occupied by the prisoners and declared that he was satisfied they were the men.

The gems have not yet been recovered, but the authorities expect to get them back through the frightened purchasers, who will be afraid of implication in the deal.

BIG BALLOON RACE COURSE VEERS EAST

tors the word was given, and the race was on.

No Hitch in the Get-Away.

Not a hitch nor a moment's delay marred the ascents of the huge bags, which left the ground on time to the second. Not a person in the crowd of nearly 100,000 persons who witnessed the departure of these conquerors of the air but felt a thrill as nine messengers of the world's greatest powers disappeared in the heights above to an unknown destination.

The wind was blowing ten miles an hour from the southwest.

Long after the last balloon had departed on its voyage the surging thousands remained watching the spheres grow smaller and smaller, until the rising fogs of the evening shut them from view.

That superstition was strong in the breast of many was shown by the little "luck" pieces which nearly all the aeronauts carried with them from their friends behind. Snugly tucked away in the pockets of the American contestants were four leaf clovers given them just before leaving. August Post, companion to Allen S. Hawley, who represented the Aero club of St. Louis, carried in his vest pocket a "good luck" penny from one of the army officers.

The first word from the balloons was a dispatch from Bloomington, Ill., saying a balloon had landed ten miles from there and a relief party had started. That was at 11:30 last night. A few moments later two balloons were reported in the vicinity of Mt. Vernon, Ill., and a later dispatch from Lexington, Mo., said that several balloons had appeared there, ranging in time from 10:25 to 11 o'clock. There one balloon led all the others by nearly a half hour. It was moving fast in a westerly direction and passed over the northern part of the town. A half hour later four balloons, bunched, moving in a northwesterly direction, were observed across the river north of here. They were moving in a northwesterly direction. A few minutes after three were sighted southwest of the town, moving in a westerly direction.

Lexington, Mo., is forty-four miles east of Kansas City and is northwest of St. Louis. By air line the distance probably is 180 to 190 miles.

When a girl hands a fellow the mitten and he doesn't turn to drink, she gets to talking about men being beyond understanding.

CLOCK REPAIRING

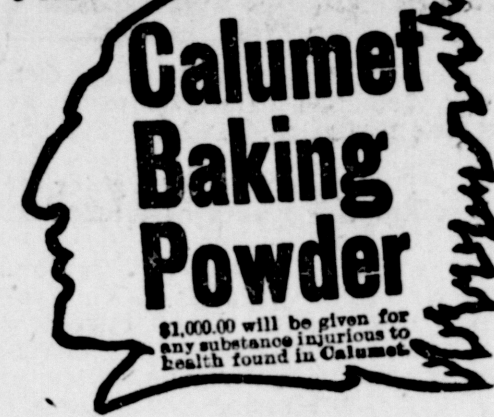

Why is it your clock does not keep good time? Perhaps we can tell you. Some jewelers "clean" a clock without taking it apart. They immerse the works in a vat of benzine, give it fresh oil—$1.00, please.

The material mercenary view is all right. Because are we not in business to make money? But back and behind all that should be Satisfaction to you and to us.

Our repair work, as it relates to this business, may be compared to the motion power of a vast and intricate machine, affecting the growth of the business according to its strength or weakness. Every job is a cog in the driving wheel, anyone of which, if weakened or impaired, affects the entire machine. We will send for and deliver clocks upon request.

UPPER MISSISSIPPI RIVER CONVENTION

the sugar and coffee, the bacon and beef steak that go into the family larder and appear in appetizing array on his table at meal time. It is not hard to understand that high or low freight rates have a direct effect upon the purse of the public. Then, when one considers the fact that river freight rates are so low that there is hardly a basis of comparison between them and railroad freight rates, it becomes evident that the question of whether the Mississippi is to again become a navigable stream for big boats is one of great importance. Railroads charge as much for hauling, on their inland lines, a hundred pounds of freight thirty miles, as that same hundred pounds can be hauled for on the river from St. Paul to St. Louis, a distance of 676 miles. And this is the case now, when river traffic has decreased to almost nothing in comparison with what it was some years ago. And it has decreased because the river is not navigable for big freighters except for a short season. Give the Mississippi navigable depth throughout the open season, give the boat builders time to reproduce the freighters of the old days, and then see the river traffic increase, by leaps and bounds.

The Railroads.

Meanwhile, the railroads will have to take measures to accommodate themselves to the river trade. The legislation that has been accomplished in the last few years gives reason to believe that by the time the river has been improved, rates to and from Mississippi river points will be made by the railroads and will give the shipper an opportunity to transport his freight to inland points or from them to other inland points, either via the river and the railroads or the railroads alone, at a cost that will be materially less than at present. Discrimination against inland points by the maintenance of high rates in comparison with the rates made for river and rail transportation will be prevented by law, and the whole country will profit.

Such a plan looks like a bad one for the railroads, and it is not hard to see why they are not enthusiastically in favor of the improvement of the Mississippi. But in these days of frenzied finance and equally frenzied legislation it is a compassionate man indeed who looks at his neighbor's bank book before he leaps into a profit-promising deal. Then, too, the railroads have evidenced their ability to take care of themselves. The reports for the present year show that they have enjoyed big increases in their earnings, in spite of legislation that has not only affected freight tariffs but has dictated three-cent passenger fare shall give way to two-cent rates. And still, in spite of all this—or because of it—passenger coaches and Pullmans are crowded, "everybody is traveling," and the shortage of freight cars indicates that just about everybody is shipping something. So the railroads can be depended upon to take care of themselves.

River Points Prosperous.

Of course, the Mississippi river cities and towns will profit by reason of the deep waterways more than will the inland points. Their prosperity has already begun, and places that a few years ago had the merited reputation of being "dead ones" have come to life. Factories send their smoke into the air today where cornfields flourished only a few years ago, and prosperous little towns cluster about the factories. River cities are growing fast. Their shipping facilities, present and future, their desire to go ahead and to shake off the lethargy that was theirs, either in fact or fancy, for many years, attract to them men of means who want good locations for manufacturing plants. These men are not disappointed. The river cities have commercial clubs and chambers of commerce, with their trade extension committees who are on the look out for new capital. The manufacturers are welcomed, they are told of the manifold reasons why they should locate their plants along the great river, and they can see the reasons even without being told.

The Old Days

But behind all this practical side, this money making side of the river improvement situation, there is another reason why the people of the river points want to see the channel deepened. Talk with an old riverman, one of those who served his time in boyhood with Mark Twain, and learn the real story of old Father Mississippi. The old pilot, gray and bent, but with weather beaten features aglow at the thought of the days that are gone, can spin many a yarn of the time when the river was "the" avenue of trade and travel, when it was in fact the news bearing agency of the great middle west. He will tell of the old boats like the "Andy Johnson," the "Tom Jasper," the "Lucy Bertram," and will go into the history of the "War Eagles" that followed each other on the river. His memory, even though it may fail to recall events of yesterday or last week, will prove true when he delves into the dear old past and tells the story of the

SEEKS TO LOCATE MISSING DAUGHTER

A. HANAN OF TREMPPEALEAU APPEALS TO POLICE

MET THE GIRL AT THE TRAIN

Left Her in Waiting Room for a Few Moments and Upon Returning She Had Vanished

A. Hanan of Trempealeau arrived at the central police station shortly before noon today, soon after the Milwaukee train had pulled out, to ask for assistance in the search of his daughter, whose disappearance he is unable to account for.

His daughter, Miss Myrtle Hanan, 15 years of age, has been located in Winona for some time, since the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Hanan, some two years ago.

Mr. Hanan was to meet her at the Milwaukee depot and upon the arrival of the train he soon espied his daughter and greeted her in the customary way. She seemed to be delighted to meet him.

They went into the depot and after a short talk Mr. Hanan excused himself and left for a short time and promised to return for his daughter in a little while.

Upon his return, however, the girl was missing, and he has no clue whatever as to her whereabouts.

He suspects that she may have corresponded with a La Crosse friend and had some arrangement made with him before he met her, and, that upon opportunity during his absence, she slipped away.

Mrs. Tuite was dismissed for alleged incompetency, but because she was president of the Carders' union and active in union affairs, the employees profess to believe that this is really responsible for her dismissal.

AUGUST BELMONT DOWN AND OUT

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—August Belmont, according to reports current is about to resign the presidency of the National Civic Federation. It is rumored that Seth Low will succeed Mr. Belmont.

Mississippi when steamboating was real steamboating. Those were the days that he loved, when the whole town gathered on the levee to watch the packet land; when the deck hands, driven by voluble and profane mates, struggled down the gang plank with boxes, barrels and crates, piled them high on the landing and shuffled back to the boat for new loads, singing the while melodies of the southland and the river. Those were the days when the Mississippi was a deep waterway and the old boatman would like to see them return.

And he will. Perhaps it will not be until the old timers, who are few enough even now, will have embarked on their last, long voyage, but the river is coming back into its own; the old days will come again.

DRY UP RAW SPOTS IN THE SKIN

Read How You Can Eradicate Those Terrible Red Stitches Which Itch and Torture You.

Those raw and burning spots in the skin which make you scratch until you are almost mad with torture they can be dried up and the skin will become as pure and white as ever by the use of the most simple external remedy known to medical science—a remedy made simple by the fact that its basic ingredient is oil of wintergreen. It is a liquid remedy used externally for Eczema, ring worm, barber's itch and other diseases of the skin, sold under the name of D. D. D. Prescription. This remedy instantly kills the germs which cause the itch. We know that instant you apply a few drops of the D. D. D. liquid to that awful itching skin the agony is gone—you are free from that itch, soothed, cooled, refreshed,—soon the unsightly red spots with their nasty exudations begin to disappear.

Read this letter from Mrs. J. W. Choate of Carrollton, Wash., one of many thousands we have:

"I am so thankful that a cure has been found for that terrible disease, Eczema. Our little boy was tormented with Eczema for two years. I sent for a sample of D. D. D. and it helped him wonderfully. After using three bottles he is well. I cannot say enough for D. D. D. Today the child's skin is smooth and clean and I shall recommend D. D. D. to every sufferer with skin disease."

While we have not seen the original copy of Mrs. Choate's letter, we are sure it is a genuine letter; for we know that the D. D. D. Co. is constantly getting hundreds and hundreds of letters of endorsement from those who have been cured by D. D. D. We know from people in our own town how wonderfully D. D. D. helps skin sufferers, and if you have any kind of skin trouble at all, drop into our store and we will show you letters from those who have been cured, your own neighbors perhaps, letters giving important news to skin sufferers.

RHEUMATISM

BODY RACKED WITH PAIN

No other disease causes such wide-spread suffering as Rheumatism. It is a nerve racking torture, and so thoroughly does it dominate the system, when it becomes entrenched in the blood, that its victims are usually complete slaves to pain. Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid in the blood brought on by stomach troubles, weak kidneys, indigestion, and a sluggish condition of the system. The natural refuse of the body, instead of passing off through the ordinary channels of waste, is left to sour and ferment in the system because of these irregularities, forming uric acid which is absorbed into the blood, and Rheumatism gets a foothold. As the blood circulates through the body it deposits the acid, irritating substances with which it is saturated, into the different muscles, nerves, tissues and bones. Sharp, biting pains commence, the flesh becomes feverish, swollen and tender, the muscles and joints throb and jerk, and the body is literally racked with pain.

Plasters, blisters, liniments, etc., can never cure the disease; they relieve the pain, perhaps, temporarily, but do not reach the trouble, which is in the blood. S. S. S. is the proper treatment for Rheumatism. It goes down and attacks the disease at its head, and by driving out the poison and strengthening and enriching the blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, just what is needed in every case of Rheumatism. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free.

THE WIRELESS TELEPHONE
(Harper's Weekly.)

Prof. Fessenden began his work upon this problem in 1898, while carrying on his investigations in wireless telegraphy. At this time scientists had developed three distinct methods of sending electromagnetic waves off into space from a tall mast, or antenna, as it is technically termed. Experiments showed that none of these methods would do for telephony. They gave single waves separated by distinct intervals. This was not harmful to wireless telegraphy, where signals consist of a series of clicks; but such single waves were useless for transmitting words, the continuity of which must not be broken. He decided that what was needed was a means for producing long trains of waves, and devised apparatus for this purpose.

Prof. Fessenden surmounted the difficulties and engaged a machine which would give the desired electrical results and it is now in use, the rotating field making 10,000 revolutions per minute, and has for weeks been giving off an electrical current which changes its direction no less than 50,000 times per second.

EXPLORING THE EUCALYPTUS.
(Forestry and Irrigation.)

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad has sent the manager of its tie and timber department, E. O. Faulkner, on an exploring journey to Hawaii, Japan and Australia to study the eucalyptus in those countries and perhaps buy trees for planting. The Santa Fe railroad has a thousand acres in eucalyptus in California, which are intended to supply telephone poles and railroad ties. These are doing well, but it is hoped that Mr. Faulkner can find still better varieties. It is a novelty for a railroad to be undertaking agricultural explorations in foreign lands.

QUOTATIONS LOCALLY REMAIN AT STANDSTILL TODAY

TOBACCO SOMEWHAT HURT

Cold Weather Said to Have Done Damage to Crop in Sheds; Good Price Expected by Some

The local market remains stationary today.

According to the Cashton Record the cold weather of the past week has done a great deal of damage to tobacco hanging in the sheds. It is claimed that some of the weed that was harvested a little green, froze around the outer edges, where it was not sufficiently protected. There have been no sales reported lately, so it is hard to tell just what the average price will be. Some farmers expect big money, while others say they will be content with a fair remuneration for their work.

HEAD OF MALTING COMPANY UNHEARD FROM

DIVIDEND DECLARED; UNPAID

Financial Question at Mankato Firm Is Puzzling Stockholders; Family Fear Safety of Father

MANKATO, Minn., Oct. 22.—The defunct Mankato Malting company, which is now in the hands of the receiver, O. H. Osmundson of this city, has never paid a dividend on the stock since it started. Last summer a 10 per cent dividend was declared, but has never been paid. This has caused comment among the stockholders, and some of them from time to time referred to the fact that the Red Wing Malting company that started about the same time had paid a 10 per cent dividend regularly. Both companies have seemed to be doing a good business.

Receiver Osmundson thinks that Oscar Bierbauer, president of the company, who left for parts unknown just the day before the bankruptcy proceedings were begun, will return to the city Oct. 26, when the orders to show cause why the parties should not be adjudged bankrupt, will come up before Referee in Bankruptcy J. A. Fittie.

Mr. Bierbauer's family has received no word from him since his departure three weeks ago, but in one way do not consider this strange, as he seldom if ever wrote home when away from the city.

Members of the family fear he may be mentally deranged, and are very much worried. They are large holders of the stock of the malt company, and their interests are the same as those of other stockholders, only more so, as being more heavily interested.

LYNX IS CHASED ON CROOKSTON STREETS

CROOKSTON, Minn., Oct. 22.—A big Canadian lynx was shot in the heart of the city of Crookston within half a block of Main and Robert streets, the busiest corner of the city.

The animal was frightened out of Munch's Park, which contains a big strip of uncleared and natural forest land, and is just across the Red Lake river from the Great Northern central depot. It was seen running across the river, and in spite of the crowd which had gathered on the river bank the animal swam fearlessly to the shore and scrambled up the bank. The crowd became panic stricken and fled in every direction and the cat began springing after them. The cat Morrissey arrived with a gun and shot the lynx dead.

It measured over four feet from tip to tip and stood fully two feet above the ground.

NORTHWEST BRIEFS

SAUK RAPIDS, Minn.—One Sank Rapids elevator yesterday paid out $3,518 for ten loads of clover seed, and marketed by Benton county farmers. The price was $8 per bushel.

DES MOINES, Ia.—John Cain, who on Wednesday shot a mine operator, Charles Morris, and E. C. Johnston, and was sought by the officers, has surrendered. He says the shooting was accidental.

DES MOINES, Ia.—Congressman J. A. T. Hull, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, in an interview here says the army is in a lamentable condition because of a shortage of men. He blames the department at Washington for overworking the regulars.

GRAND MEADOW, Minn.—An insane man about twenty-years old was found stark naked in a barn in this village. His clothes were with him, but he refused to put them on until forced to do so by the officer. He had not been shaved for many months and seemed half starved. He said he had been in Minneapolis, but said his home was Knox county, Nebraska. He was taken to Austin.

DES MOINES, Ia.—Interesting legal war is being waged at Charles City, in Floyd county, as the result of the indictment of practicing physicians and surgeons there on the charge of attempting to fix, regulate and maintain prices. The doctors' last move was a writ of habeas corpus, alleging they were unlawfully detained. They urged that medical services cannot be included in the term "article of merchandise or commodity" described in the statute as things not to be regulated by trusts. The doctors will take the case to the Iowa supreme court.

COAL SITUATION IS BEST IN YEARS

SHIPMENT AT HEAD OF LAKES EXCEEDS RECEIPTS

HEAVY PURCHASES ARE MADE

This Is Cause of Unusual Condition—Light Cargoes From East—Scarcity of Labor Found

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 22.—The coal situation in the northwestern today is better than for many days, and the outlook for getting coal to the country and city trade of the region is better than for months. Coal shipments on the lake by rail are heavy, receipts by boat. This is considered a remarkable condition for this time of the year and upon the way the orders for coal are being received.

The orders for shipments to the west are more numerous than the able to fill. It is a commentary on the scarcity of labor. While the coal companies are able to load cars and boats at the same time. The result is that when boats are in and cars are to be loaded at the same time it is almost necessary to use the men at the unloading work.

The car shortage in the east is given as the cause for the comparatively light receipts at present. The dealers are unable to get the coal from the mines to the lower lake ports for shipment up here.

NO. 1 GET NO LAND; NO. 2 IS FORTUNATE

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 22.—A number of the holders of the numbers below 200 are in the city, getting their bearings for the purpose of filing. The southern part of the reservation appears to be the most attractive to the first choice people, as it lies within six miles of Presho, on the St. Paul road, and is good, level land, but just where No. 1 will make his selection remains in doubt.

The first selection will be made by No. 2, as the man who drew No. 1 cannot file on account of being already the owner of more than a quarter section.

It is unfortunate when a busy man has a looter for a friend.

FIVE YEARS FOR BANK DEFAULTER

THOMAS COGHILL OF SEYMOUR SENTENCED

WIFE FAINTS IN COURT ROOM

Swoons When Judge Quarles Sends Husband to Fort Leavenworth for Long Term; Stole $50,000

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 23.—In the United States court room yesterday, Mrs. Thomas Coghill fainted and was carried from the room as her husband was sentenced to the government prison at Fort Leavenworth, for five years, by Judge J. V. Quarles.

Thomas Coghill, formerly cashier in the First National bank, Seymour, Wis., who was indicted by the federal grand jury, last week, for embezzlement of the funds of the bank, explained how he became a defaulter. Coghill was at one time agent for the Green Bay & Western railway at Seymour. When the bank at Seymour was organized he became cashier. Early in his banking career he made several small loans which never were repaid. In an effort to cover up the shortage made by these loans, amounting to about $2,000, Coghill decided to try a plunge in wheat, with the result that in six months he had squandered nearly $50,000 of the funds of the bank.

When the shortage was discovered, Coghill was dismissed from the bank. During the week in which the books were being investigated, he made no effort to escape. He was arrested in his own home by Deputy United States Marshal J. H. Vebber and brought to Milwaukee. For the last four months he has been confined in the county jail.

Until the last few months, Coghill always has been considered a good man. When the plea of guilty was entered, his attorney made a plea for leniency, and as Judge Quarles imposed the minimum penalty, five years, Mrs. Coghill fainted.

CRAZY TO MARRY; MUST DROP IDEAS

APPLETON, Wis., Oct. 22.—(Special.)—Kimberly, the paper mill village of the Fox river, is having a performance of "The Girl Question" in real life. Frank Mauskas, a young Poland, was hauled up before Judge Kreiss, and a romance was revealed. Mauskas is 20 years old and wants to get married. He fancies he is engaged to a young Kimberly woman and asked the priest to announce the banns. The priest, realizing the man's condition refused, and the Poland said he would holler right out in meetin'. It was found that Mauskas spends his income for clothes and presents for the girls. Judge Kreiss said he had to leave marital matters alone or go to the asylum, and Frank thought himself and readily assented.

TEACHER SMOKES; IS PINCHED THRICE

CHIPPewa FALLS, Wis., Oct. 22.—(Special.)—Because he wanted to smoke a cigarette and had to do it on the sly for fear of the safety of his position, a Chippewa Falls public school teacher, whose name is withheld by the police, who were called into the case, was arrested three times in one night. A young woman was startled by the schoolmaster, sitting in the vestibule of her home, and thought him a crook or a dangerous character of some kind. The police were called and developments came thick and fast. His persistence in pulling at the weed almost resulted in confinement in the "pen" but he is now a wiser man, thanks to the advice from the police to "cut it out."

PAY TOO SMALL; TEACHER RESIGNS

JEFFERSON, Wis., Oct. 22.—(Special.)—Convinced after being in the business twenty-three years, that the lot of a country schoolmaster is an exceptionally hard one, and the wages hardly enough to buy the necessities of life in these times of high prices, L. J. F. Meyer, principal of the Lutheran parochial school of Jefferson has resigned, to take effect November 1. Prof. Meyer has accepted a position as secretary of the Meyer News Service Co., a recently organized corporation, which serves many high class daily newspapers, and has its main office in Milwaukee.

CARS COLLIDE AT 16TH AND MARKET

A collision between two street cars occurred at Sixteenth and Market street yesterday noon.

At this corner the Sixteenth street car goes south and the Market street car goes east, the lines crossing. The motormen did not see each other in time, and the crash resulted in which the passengers were badly frightened and the cars badly damaged.

Several of the windows were broken and it seems a miracle that some of the passengers were not cut by the flying glass.

The cars were in charge of Cahill and White.

GASOLINE IGNITED; WOMAN MAY DIE

LIGHTS MATCH TO SEE WORK; EXPLOSION FOLLOWS

FLAMES ENVELOPE HER BODY

Mass of Fire, Victim Calls for Brother and Sister; Wrapped With Blanket to Save Her Life

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 22.—While Miss Emma Levielle, 25 years old, was cleaning lace curtains with gasoline yesterday, she lit a match to note the progress of her work. A few minutes later she was at the Emergency hospital moaning with excruciating pain and the doctors were making efforts to save her life. Her recovery is not expected.

The room in which Miss Levielle was working was dark, and she struck a match to have more light. Her clothes had become soaked with the gasoline and caught fire. In a moment she was a mass of flames from head to foot. She rushed into the front hall and her screams brought her brother, Albert, her sister, Anna, and a number of boarders to the spot.

Attempts were made to put out the fire with water, but to no avail. Blankets were finally torn from the beds and thrown over Miss Levielle, who had fallen to the floor, and the fire was quickly extinguished. All the hair was burned from her head, and her body from head to foot is one mass of blisters. Her brother and sister had their hands badly burned in trying to put out the fire and their injuries were dressed at the Emergency hospital.

OLD CAPTAIN OF STEAMBOAT CITED

COMMISSION EXAMINES HIS MENTAL CONDITION

FIND HE IS PERFECTLY SANE

Effort to Have Captain D. F. Dorrance of Le Claire Declared Insane Is of No Avail.

Considerable excitement has been occasioned along the river by an attempt at his home in Le Claire, Ia., to have Captain D. F. Dorrance, one of the best known old river captains on the river declared insane.

The Le Claire Advance, speaking of the incident, says:

"Excitement ran high in Le Claire last Saturday when it was learned that Capt. D. F. Dorrance would have to undergo a test before the insane commissioners, on a charge preferred against him by his daughter, Mrs. I. H. Spinsky. The people who had known the bluff old rapid pilot for twenty years or more thought it all a joke until the sheriff and a deputy appeared upon the scene and took him to Davenport, accompanied by Mayor Shirk and the two local physicians, Drs. Bailey and Skinner, and the prosecuting witness, Mrs. Spinsky.

"The accused river man declined all offers of assistance from those who were anxious to go on the stand in his behalf, declaring that he could establish his sanity without trouble.

"His first action upon arriving at Davenport was sane enough. He retained Attorney J. R. Lane and secured a continuance until Monday. At the hearing, which was brief, the captain was acquitted upon his daughter's testimony as much as that of Dr. Bailey, who, while called by the prosecution, could only testify

APPLETON, Wis.—Wisconsin people who are astronomically inclined are now given an opportunity to study the sun, moon and stars at close range. Announcement is made that the observatory at Lawrence university will be open to the public every evening from 8 to 10 o'clock until December 1. Prof. J. C. Lymer will be on hand several nights in the week to explain phenomena. The Lawrence observatory has one of the most complete equipments for work in astronomy in the west.

That the captain was no more eccentric now than he was eight years ago. Dr. Skinner's testimony was not materially damaging. The prosecuting witness, Mrs. Spinsky, was unwilling to testify that he had ever threatened her in any manner, and seemed to base her theory of her father's insanity solely upon the fact that he had claimed to still hold some interest in the farm he had deeded to her, and further that he was reckless in the manner of downing his biters. Dr. Bowman, the insanity expert, testified that Mr. Dorrance was perfectly rational. And thus he was promptly acquitted by the commissioners.

"It may be stated that here in Le Claire very few people doubted the outcome of the case, and all regret the publicity that has been given to an unfortunate family affair. The verdict of Le Claire might be summed up in the testimony of one of the witnesses—Capt. Dorrance was as eccentric twenty years ago as he is today. He is one of a very few still surviving in Le Claire of a type that was once fairly numerous here—of the rivermen who attained eminence in their calling and with independent means. Being independent of any one and everyone on the shore for his living he was not under the necessity of mincing words or qualifying his statements, so that a bluntness of speech and a bluntness of manner became second nature to him, while utterly incomprehensible to the polite trimmers of modern society. A trivial incident that occurred the morning after Capt. Dorrance returned from his hearing illustrates this nicely. A prominent society lady ran up to congratulate him, utterly unmindful of the fact that she was "butting in" upon a private conversation, and the pilot, taking her proffered hand, remarked, "Yes, yes, you're one of these policy women, you want to be on the winning side." And as she withdrew with such dignity as she could command he straightway forgot her very existence and no slurring remark or malicious chuckle followed her.

Small wonder though, that some of our policy people should deem him "insane."

"The greatest fault of Capt. Dorrance has always been his reckless manner of giving away his money. His purse was always open. Having given away the greater portion of his once considerable wealth he now finds himself in the same position as many another good man who did not mix caution with his charity. While well along in years he is not in any way incapacitated from making a good living, and still enjoys the distinction of being one of the best and safest pilot on the upper river. Directly after the hearing on Monday he brought the steamer Hershey and barge over the rapids, and the only thing he bumped into was a legal notice from Mrs. Spinsky warning him to keep off her premises except to come after his personal effects."
